PRESS RELEASE
(For Immediate Release)

CENTRAL GOLD-TRUST UNITS
NOW TRADING ON THE
AMERICAN STOCK EXCHANGE (AMEX)

Monday, September 25, 2006

Ancaster, Ontario, Canada - - - Central Gold-Trust ("Gold-Trust") is pleased to announce that its Units were posted for trading under the symbol GTU on the American Stock Exchange at the opening on Friday, September 22, 2006.

Messrs. Ian McAvity, Philip Spicer and Stefan Spicer, Trustees of Gold-Trust, were present at the AMEX for the opening bell ceremony on Friday, September 22, 2006. Mr. Stefan Spicer, President of Central Gold-Trust, expressed appreciation to the Executive and Staff of the AMEX for their assistance in the process leading to listing the Units, and the appointment of Brendan E. Cryan and Company, LLC as the Specialist for Central Gold-Trust Units.

Central Gold-Trust, launched in Canada in April, 2003, is a passive, single purpose, self-governing closed-end trust, 98% invested in long-term holdings of gold bullion, substantially in physical international bars, and does not actively speculate with regard to short-term changes in gold prices. Central Gold-Trust's gold bullion is held unencumbered in allocated, segregated and insured safekeeping in Canada, in the treasury vaults of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. The gold bullion is physically audited by Ernst & Young in the presence of Gold-Trust Officers and Trustees as well as bank officials.

Central Gold-Trust Units now trade on both the AMEX with symbol GTU and the Toronto Stock Exchange (TSX) with symbols GTU.UN in Canadian dollars and GTU.U in United States dollars.
